

Ashton Herekamp and Tyler White

Title: BrainPop Jr. Movie of the Week

Version: 2.0.15 (October 2, 2018)

Publisher: BrainPOP

Target Audience: Kids 6-8

Curriculum(s): all subjects (math, science, reading, social studies)

Cost: app is free, there is an in-app purchase for explorer subscription for $2.99 and full access subscription for $6.99

Description: BrainPop Jr. Movie of the week has a variety of different short video clips to help explain all sorts of topics categorized by school subject and then subtopic. The videos explain terminology associated with the topic and can last anywhere from 3 to 5 minutes. BrainPop offers a hard or easy quiz after the video has played through. The child then also has options to view a joke or comic strip that is funny for the students to enjoy.

Impression: This app was very easy to access and was very organized. As a student, you could search easily for the right video and then they are short enough to keep their attention. The app was colorful and made entertaining noises. As a teacher, the wide variety of materials and the quizzes afterwards were just an awesome treat. This would be great to use in the classroom in a center to help review with the student.