Ashton Herekamp and Tyler White

Title: Total Recall

Version: 5.0 (7-19-17)

Publisher: Michel Neuhaus

Target Audience: Ages 8+

Curriculum(s): none (could be applied to any subject)

Cost: Free to download but $1.99 to upgrade to Mind Map Unlock

Description: Total Recall is a graphic organizer app that anyone can use if they can type. It starts with a tutorial page that you can reference at any time to help you get started and learn the buttons. To create your own, you just use an addition button and then add bubbles type in them and you can change the color, shape, or make text larger. You can also connect the bubbles to each other to connect the ideas.

Impressions: We at first did not like this app because we did not see the tutorial, but after watching the tutorial, we understood it and could create our own. This app is really good for the classroom because every kid could create their own web and have a creative way to express what is happening in their mind. We also liked that you could basically create any kind of map or chart for any subject. We could see ourselves using this to enhance their learning experience.