

Osmos Response

Which game was more interesting to you and why?

I really like the Pizza Co. game. Though I may not be a SPED teacher, I have spent a lot of time in those environments. This game would be an awesome way to teach life skills and currency to mid-level self-contained students. Sometimes getting and keeping these students' attention is difficult, and they often respond well to hands on learning & positive reinforcement. Those kids love interactive technology and this "game" could be an awesome tool for teachers to use in their classrooms.
