KidBlog <https://kidblog.org/home/>

Synopsis:

Students will need to get on KidBlog and create a book review for a book they have selected to read this nine weeks. First, they will get on popplet and create a web or map full of ideas they want to write about, so they make sure to have their thoughts organized before writing the blog. I want them to talk about the main ideas and main characters in their blog. The goal is for students to give us a brief summary that makes everyone want to read the book they chose. This helps students to comprehend what they are reading and improve their writing skills at the same time. This is an individual project.
