

Having a set of rules and consequences as well as an acceptable use policy is very important for parents to have to use at home as well as in my classroom. Letting kids know there are rules in life and consequences for rules broken is important to their growth as humans. Kids must learn that rules are put in place for a reason and the consequences are there to persuade them not to engage in those bad behaviors. This is a good way for kids to take responsibility for their actions. I will be including a template for you to follow at home and fill out with your own rules and consequences if you choose to use it.
