PADLET

There are many templates that can be used to create various Padlet boards. Using this in my classroom, there are many possibilities. I could create a Padlet board where all students are collaborating and posting notes on the board. This could be used for notetaking and group projects. I could also use Padlet to take survey or ask for opinions in the classroom.

ONLINE TOOLS

I think there are many online tools that can be used to create interactive lessons and activities in the classroom. I was surprised by the things I could do on the sites with just the free version. I liked that the graphics and themes were more intriguing than if I had simply used word to create a worksheet. I honestly did not find anything that I was not impressed with on the websites that I mentioned.
