

Teaching Wishlist

Disclaimer: This Wishlist is not a practical list, it is purely a list of items I could use in my class to help my students with their educational journey!

I teach a Kindergarten class of 22, 14 girls and 8 boys! When you first enter my classroom you will notice that I have all 5 of my tables grouped up where there are 4 children at 4 of the tables and 3 children at the last table. These tables are all color coded so that when I call a table up I can just say the tables color instead of every students name. Table 1 is red, table 2 is blue, table 3 is purple, table 4 is green, and table 5 is orange! I have a round learning rug up frond near the black board, the students sit on this rug when I read books to them and they all have there own little bubble! My personal desk is up front beside the reading rug and I even have a small reading center on directly across from my desk in the other corner of the room. The children each have a personal locker on the backwall near the door with name tags decorated and taped to the top to signify who the locker belongs to.
