

Videos as an Integrated Component

Lesson plan 1: As an assessment tool, the teacher could ask the students to upload a video of the students explaining how the judicial, executive, and legislative branches impact us as citizens of the United States.

Lesson plan 2: As an assessment tool, the teacher could ask the students to upload a video of the students demonstrating their science fair projects live so that they could supply a video of the experiment at the fair!

Lesson plan 3: The teacher could demonstrate how a geometric concept of volume is used in a real life environment is used outside of the classroom, and bring the video of the outside world experience to the classroom.

Lesson plan 4: As an assessment tool, the teacher could ask the students to present their outlines for their final social studies essay, including thesis statement, main points, and the main supporting details.

These are just a few examples of how I plan to use videos in my classroom.
