

AUP's (Acceptable Use Policies) are incredibly useful for setting guidelines. It lets everyone know what is expected of them and the consequences for not following those guidelines. This is just as important in the home as it is in the classroom. Technology and internet use is a struggle to regulate. Creating an AUP for your home will help with this. Please feel free to look at my website for an example AUP that you can use. I encourage that you use this model or create your own AUP at home. In my classroom we work together (students and teacher) to create our AUP. I come forward with basic rules, and then allow the students to add on rules that they feel are important to a good classroom environment. Please involve your kids when creating a home AUP. This will help them be more willing to comply with the rules.
