Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the act of taking somebody else's work and claiming it as your own. This is also known as copying somebody else's work, but then saying that you found all the answers on your own. That is not allowed.

Copyright: Dictionary.com defines copyright as the "legal right granted to an author, a composer, a playwright, a publisher, or a distributor to exclusive publication, production, sale, or distribution of a literary, musical, dramatic, or artistic work." Using somebody's copyrighted work is not allowed.

Fair Use: Fair use goes under the Copyright Act. Fair use allows individuals to use certain copyrighted work without permission in limited ways, such as making photocopies.

Consequences for breaking rules:

1. Warning: I will give you a verbal warning if you break the rules. After this verbal warning, you are expected to correct your actions.
2. Note sent home: If you continue breaking the rules, you will have a note sent home as well as missed recess.
3. Lost Privilege: If you continue breaking the rules, you will lose certain privileges in the classroom (such as technology).
