

Padlet

Padlet can be used in my class in several ways. One of those ways would be that it can be used would be if I were to have older students. They could organize their ideas and brainstorm for possible writings and then choose which one they would like. Another way that Padlet could be used in my classroom is that I could give students the link for it and open it up so they could leave their ideas/responses to a question I ask. Again, this would be for older students and not Kindergarteners or 1st graders. Honestly, I would not use Padlet in a Kindergarten classroom unless it was for lesson planning.

Online Tools

I have discovered that online tools can enhance lesson plans by keeping students interested in the lesson. If the students are interested in the lesson plan, that means that they will learn more and be able to retain more information. What I like about on-line tools is that they can be easily accessible for teachers and students. What I dislike about on-line tools is that if the internet is out for whatever reason, then the tools will not be accessible.
