

Padlet

There are endless ways that educators could use Padlet within any lessons. I never knew all the different ways that Padlet could be used. Padlet is a great way for me to organize and include all of my applications, papers, and online tools. I can allow my students and parents to access any of the boards and I need too. I can use Padlet as a way to brainstorm for new ideas for my lessons. I can gather work from my students by allowing them to post directly on my designated boards. I can even make a quiz or a poll for my students to participate in so I can receive immediate feedback. Padlet has proven to be a very useful tool for education.

On-Line Tools Discovery

I love the endless possibilities that online tools provide. I have discovered that there are a lot more online tools out there for me to use within my classroom and the good ones are not always the ones that are presented first on a google search. The tools that I have so far worked with can help me teach my students in a variety of ways to meet their individual learning needs. The hard thing about online tools, is to find the right ones that will be useful in a way that won't consume a lot of valuable teacher time.
