Acceptable Use Policy
Parent Template

Just as we have implemented an acceptable use policy in the classroom it is also a good idea to have one at home between you and your child or children. This helps to hold them accountable for the rules you set at home and understand that if they break these rules then they will have consequences. By having an AUP at home, it helps me even more in the classroom, because then that student has the same structure to follow all day long instead of just during the day in my classroom.

Consequences

When there are rules in place and children decide to break them willingly after knowing there are consequences they must be held accountable for their actions.
