

Four other ways you can use iMovie with your class:

1. Students can create trailers to movies and books by reviewing them.
2. Students can create a collage of the pictures that they take on a school field trip and then show them to the class.
3. I could use it by creating a daily slideshow of the objectives and concepts that we will be covering every day to show in the mornings before we begin working.
4. Students can research topics such as panda bears and create presentations about them.
Then, the students can share those presentations with the class.
