

Padlet:

Padlet can be fun and easy in the classroom because students can use it for brainstorming a topic of their choice. The students can use the board to discuss their comments and ideas. Another way to use Padlet is using an exit ticket Padlet. Exit tickets are for the students to show the teacher that they understood the material that day. I really like the idea of creating a birthday wall for my students. It would work very well on a Padlet board.

On-Line Tools:

I discovered that on-line tools can be helpful to any teacher in any grade. On-line tools give teachers flexibility which is extremely helpful. They are also not as difficult to do than I originally have thought. They are quick and easy to navigate. They can enhance your lessons because the students will be more engaged and willing to learn because it is making it more fun for them. The lessons will have the students excited to learn especially with new websites they are learning off of. I like that they are easy to navigate. Also, I know that the students will enjoy it. That is really why I like the on-line tools. I dislike that most of them you have to have an email log in or something. Therefore, not all of the students would be able to have their own account. It would just depend.
