

To begin my lesson, I will first ask some students to name some colors.

I will then ask students if they know of any things that are the colors that they named outloud.

Next, I will turn on the color song video.

I will allow it to play all the way through.

Once it is over, I will check for understanding.

I will say, "Can anyone tell me something that is yellow? Orange? Red?"

*The presentation of the video will most likely be towards the end of the segment of learning about colors just because it is a bit more fast pace.
