

Michaela Moore

Kahoot

My second-grade students will be using their computers to play Kahoot. I will have a code that I put on the board where they join in. I will put the question on the screen and they will answer it on their computers. We will use this to review our book that we just got done reading as a group. Students will get to pick their own name as long as it is appropriate. Each question will give them point that they get right. This is a fun and easy way to review. This can be used many different ways and I will be using it for things like math problems and other various ways to help the students review things we have learned.