QR Code

My second-grade class will play a QR code game. I will come up with questions using a website I have found the students will go around the room using their iPads with QR readers on them. They will have to solve the riddle that will lead them to different places in the room and then at the end they will find the “treasure” this will be just a little something I have gotten for them. I plan to do this on a day before we get out for thanksgiving break to give the kids a chance do something different and get up and move around the room while using technology. The students will understand at the end that each QR code has its own special place that it goes to.
