

Padlet

Michaela Moore

Padlet can be used in many ways. You can use it to enhance a lesson. A teacher can also have her students make a board on their own to better understand a subject. They can do this to let the students also show their peers who they are at the beginning of the year. As a teacher you can give them a quiz on Padlet to mix up the style of your teaching. You can also make a board together. You and your students can work together to make a board. You could do this after a field trip and let them post pictures of what they saw and what their favorite thing they did that day. This is a great tool to use in your classroom to help your children better understand a subject.
