

Vocabulary Builder by Magoosh Evaluation

Nate Tiner

Vocabulary Builder is a simple drill and practice application for users to build their vocabulary and expand their language. It can be accessed on an iPad or Apple device. This application has plenty of vocabulary practice, it has units of vocabulary and has you take quizzes and master each level. It is a free application, so you can't complain much, but it isn't customizable.

Meaning, how the application comes, it comes, you can't assign certain vocabulary words for students to learn, or practice with. This makes it difficult if you are trying to get your students to learn specific vocabulary words. It is still useful, as I believe practicing vocabulary is important in a student's language development, and I would have students spend a few minutes on this application daily just get their mind thinking and learning, no matter what class it might be, and maybe a few words each time will be useful to my content I am teaching.
