

Padlet:

Padlet can be used for many different lesson plans or even creating interactive boards. I would use padlet as a fun project for students to create a board about themselves or an “about me” board. This way they can add all sorts of things they want and really make it their own.

On-line Tools:

I have discovered that using online tools is so helpful when making lessons more interactive, and fun for students. I like how you can manipulate them to fit your lesson, but I don't care how most are for upper elementary students. I would appreciate if there were more for kindergarten that were free to use as well.
