

Four Different Ways to Use iMovie

1. I could use iMovie to teach students how to do something. Similar to the clips app, I could break down a process step by step and allow my students to see the event play out visually.
2. I could use iMovie to relay information to parents. I can record myself sharing important information and share it with the students. Parents are typically more likely to remember something if they hear it, see it, and read it.
3. I could use iMovie to allow students to make presentations about them.
4. Students could use iMovie to collaborate with one another and discuss information from a fieldtrip.
