Synopsis

The students will be broken into groups of 3. Each group will choose between one of the books we have read in class and create a VR room using roomful.net that connects to the story that they choose. They will have to write up three reasons why they think their room connects with the narrative they choose. At the end of the class, the students will take turns using the VR headsets to view each other's worlds. This lesson will be worth 10 participation points and will have an informal formative assessment using the three reasons they wrote down as assessment.
