

- The students will be doing a final unit video over energy sources they can find at their house. If they happen to be doing a source that has motion in it, they could use the slow-motion feature to show exactly what they want their audience to see.